To Conference On Glades Drainage

The power of the Palm Beach County Resource and Development Committee must have reached the Governor of Florida, for soon after this pressing drainage question had been passed to the committee, announcement was made from Tallahassee that the Governor would make a visit to Clewiston on October 18, for a conference on the Glades drainage matter. The Herald predicts that the Governor will be greeted by a mass delegation of farmers, producers, packers and citizens who will have plenty of things to present and discuss.

This drainage question is the most important one facing the Glades, for it means the losing or the saving of the rich Everglades farming section with all its potential production riches.

Local people are of the opinion that now is the time to do something about the water conditions, and do it in a big way, so these annual flareups and periods of uneasiness may be eliminated and growers have some assurance that when they plant crops that they will be able to make a harvest.

During the war the State of Florida has amassed a large fortune for public improvement work and as the South Florida area has been a large contributor to this fund, Glades people feel that there is no more pressing public improvement in the state than that of the Everglades drainage, and by right this section is due for sizable recognition in expenditures from this fund. That claim is likely to get prominent stress at the Clewiston conference.

MAIN STREET

BELLE GLADE, FLA.

It was the year 1895

OCTOBER, to be exact, when a small counter opened for business in the first Post Office in West Palm Beach. The Post Office was in the Stowers Bldg. which was on the Northwest corner of Clematis and Narcissus, and the proprietor of the counter newly opened for business was Mr. A. P. Anthony (Gus for short). Gus was one of the many young men who followed the East Coast Railway down the coast of Florida and came here with the will and energy to push the enterprises of the just-hatched "tent city" of West Palm Beach.

Inside of a few months Gus opened his first shoe and clothing store, adjoining the Post Office, and with the slogan "Anthony's Shoes Are Silent Salesmen" posted on every telegraph pole from Stuart to Miami, soon operated a thriving business. In the year 1901, Gus was joined by J. R. Anthony, Jr. (better known as Rem) and in 1903 they were joined by their brother E. D. (that's Em) and the firm became known as ANTHONY BROTHERS.

Together, Gus, Rem and Em staked their hopes and ambitions and future on the growth of Florida and more particularly on the growth of the Palm Beaches. They started out with a policy that was as simple then as it is today: that they could best succeed by offering their customers something extra: whether it was extra large assortments, extra quality or extra service and friendliness.

Old-timers will remember many of the scenes shown on this page. They date back to the time when Anthony's was first started, when the business was located on the "main drag" which was made up of two blocks on Narcissus Street and a few small buildings on Clematis Street. The present Anthony building is the fifth to house Anthony's store. When it was built it was the first all-steel structure to be built south of St. Augustine and it boasted the first elevator to be installed in West Palm Beach.

Anthony's looks back upon fifty years of serving the Palm Beaches, but looking forward is much more fun. We're looking forward now to the "brave new world" men have been talking about for generations. We're looking forward too to making improvements toward giving you the kind of store you like to shop in: toward having again complete assortments of the kind of merchandise you want: the kind of quality you want: and to ever improve the friendly service you've come to expect from Anthony's.

Anthony's Golden Anniversary.

BLOCKS

The recent storm provided a test for rigid building. Thousands of tidy, pastel colored concrete residences rode out the storm like strongboxes, at most suffering a few roof tiles blasted loose and windowpanes broken. Structurally all concrete buildings in zoned areas withstood the storm, although trees crashed upon roofs and porches and flying debris struck walls.

OBSERVATIONS

just into force the town will be in a much better condition from a safety and fire hazard standpoint.

That Belle Glade is to have a decent, direct and safe detour road leading into and out of the High School grounds shows what concentrated effort can accomplish along with a bit of diplomacy handled by men of influence. There was not an organization in the city but what was pulling for the detour road extension road. Parents can be most thankful that the dangerous packing house detour, at once considered, has passed out of the picture. The city is greatly indebted to the State Highway Department for making it possible for the new road to be built, for it was its gift of rock and which represents an considerable of a monetary value.

I gazed upon the make up of the old detour commission, and then upon the new one and it rather surprised me to recognize that the members of each board were all members of the local masonic lodge and Consistory at Lake Worth. That ought to be a good recommendation for the morals of the men.

Many in negrotown do not want an "open town" along gambling lines and the new City Commission is on record that it will aid in seeing that it is not such a town.

Our new Mayor proposes to have our city policemen put on uniforms, as is customary in most police departments. He also says that any officer found taking graft, appearing on duty intoxicated, or missing prisoners might just as well hand in his resignation, for such actions will not be tolerated by him. That's speaking out his mind for that was what he iterated before his board on taking office.

Most of the service men who are arriving home are coming back looking in fine fettle as a result of their training and services in the various war spheres, and are glad to get home again.

Highways are crowded on football nights, for those Glades fans certainly turn out and travel to see their school team in action. There was a regular parade to both Lake Worth and Pahokee for the two games so far played this season by the Golden Rams.

Singing and preaching from a Gospel Tabernacle will be rounding on Main street for the coming weeks as the Seventh Day Adventist church will be conducting such services under the direction of Elder Hays. Many worse places could be found to drop in for an evening than that Gospel meeting tent.

When Governor Millard Caldwell comes to Clewiston on Oct. 18, on a state visit, to meet Everglades farmers to discuss drainage matters in the Glades sections, he is likely to be greeted by a massive outpouring of hardy men who will not be one bit backward about telling of their griefs and the needs from a drainage standpoint. These farmers are out to get some improvements and financial aid out of the reserve funds now held by the state.

Last summer we prayed for rain, this fall we expected to get it, but we did not think the Heavens would open the spigots to the extent that it would flood our entire Glades section with the abundance of water we are now experiencing.
